Introduction

This guide is offered in the spirit of being transparent and in keeping with two of the Archives' goals:

- Becoming more accessible to all – in particular, Indigenous peoples and ethno-cultural groups represented in the Archives
- Decolonizing the Archives

We acknowledge that further work needs to be done to make the guide more user-friendly and descriptions more meaningful. The information is drawn from data supplied to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission for its database. But the guide is a good starting point for residential school research at this Archives.

Scope

The guide encompasses archival and library materials held at the United Church Archives in B.C. It includes material identified by the Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) as relevant to Residential Schools and therefore copied for inclusion in the National Centre for Truth and Reconciliation in Winnipeg.

This particular section of the guide (Part 1) relates generally to Residential Schools and Canada's Residential School system. Further sections list materials relating specifically to the five schools that the United Church ran in B.C.:

- Part 2 – Ahousaht Residential School
- Part 3 – Alberni Indian Residential School
- Part 4 – Coqualeetza Institute (Sardis, B.C.)
- Part 5 – Crosby Girls' Home (Lax Kw'alaams, B.C.)
- Part 6 – Elizabeth Long Memorial Home (Kitamaat, B.C.)

Arrangement

The guide is arranged alphabetically by name of collection or fonds, followed by a list of files contain information relevant to Residential Schools. For most fonds titles, you can click on the title and it will open a web browser to the fonds description on MemoryBC; this is intended to provide more context.

The term "series" (first column in the file list) is a grouping of files within a collection or fonds. Where available, the series title has been included because it provides a little more context and description to orient the researcher.

Access to the Records

The documents can be accessed in person at the Pacific Mountain Regional Council Archives in Vancouver. They will also eventually be available online via the National Centre for Truth and Reconciliation website.

Specific documents have not been listed, in the interest of keeping the lists from being overwhelming. However, the descriptions of the pertinent documents are available at the Archives. The Archives does not hold digital copies of the documents at this time.

Exceptions to access (i.e. restrictions) have been described in the Notes column of the file lists, along with rationale.
